CHIEF JUSTICE HITS COURT REVISION

'Stolen Gas' Charge Hurlled in Disaster

CASKEY TO TALK WITH SOLICITOR ABOUT OFFICERS

Suspension of Shasteen and Radcliff to be Discussed Monday Evening

DECISION DUE TUESDAY

Record of Hearing Testimony to be Given Director

Safety Director Charles Caskey will meet with Solicitor Carl C. Leist, Monday evening, to study the record of the hearing for Alva Shasteen and Carl Radcliff, suspended police officers.

The hearing was held Friday afternoon and a record of the testimony was to be submitted to Mr. Caskey Monday by Miss Helen Rowe, court stenographer.

Mr. Caskey's decision in the cases is expected Tuesday or Wednesday. Mr. Leist is his legal advisor.

George E. Kerr, 419 Watt street, was appointed Saturday to replace Wayne Mogan, W. Water street, who resigned as a special officer.

The other special night officer is Raymond Delong, Town street.

George Green is the only regular night policeman on duty.

Consensus of opinion is that the safety director, who ordered the two men suspended, will lift the suspension as a result of the hearing. No witness was produced to prove the officers were guilty of violations that had not been practiced for many months in the department.

OHIO SECRETARY ASSAILS FRAUD

Kennedy Asks Governor to Act in Election Scandal in Lawrence County

COLUMBUS, March 22.—(UP)—Secretary of State William J. Kennedy today asked Governor Davey to order a special grand jury investigation of purported election frauds in Lawrence county, referring to what he termed "one of the most flagrant cases of tampering and remarking of ballots I have ever heard of in this state."

The request followed an investigation by Kennedy into the ballots cast for county commissioner last November.

"Unfortunately for this office the election machinery in Lawrence county has been under suspicion for many years and the decent people are justly indignant about the election frauds of last November and rightly so," Kennedy wrote the governor.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy would direct such an investigation, if ordered.

Lawrence county commissioners recently offered a $1,000 reward for conviction of the guilty persons.

The contest involved Harry R. Banton, Democrat, and William Dickens, Republican.

The official canvass showed Banton the winner. Dickens obtained a recount which showed him the winner. Banton then brought the contest into court and Judge P. H. Weiland, of Morrow county, sitting by assignment, ruled that Banton was elected.

In his decision, Judge Weiland said there was "flagrant fraud involving the remarking of ballots between the official canvass and the recount."

Although she rented it furnished, Mrs. Simpson moved in much personal furniture which since has been reported sent to Fort Belvedere with many of the Duke of Windsor's personal belongings from Buckingham palace.

LIFEBOATS SAVE 72 SAILORS FROM BRITISH STEAMER

LONDON, March 22.—(UP)—Lifeboats fought through blinding smoke today to rescue the crew of the British Steamship Marie Moller, burning fiercely fore and aft off Holyhead on the Welsh coast.

Holyhead lifeboats took off about 40 of the crew, mostly Chinese, and returned for the rest of 72 whom the ship carried.

All were taken ashore safely. The condition of the ship was considered hopeless.

The ship's master wirelessed from a fire boat from Liverpool after two explosions started a fire aboard, the flames burst high from the decks and the ship fought its way to within 2 1/2 miles of Holyhead, where it anchored in the moderate sea.

The ship was on its way to Liverpool, 80 miles beyond Holyhead, with a cargo of peanuts from Vizagapatnam, India. It radioed at 4:46 a. m. that its fuel bunkers and its cargo were aflame after two heavy explosions. A second radio at 8 a. m. said that the United States oil tanker Beacon, life boats and fishing boats were standing by.

MAYOR LAMENTS LAW VIOLATORS GOING TO JAIL

Mayor W. J. Graham, Monday, was looking for a place to commit violators of the law so they would be punished for their crimes.

"What we need," the mayor said, "is a connection with a workhouse. There is no punishment for some persons in sending them to the county jail. Some laugh about going to jail. They have clean beds, they rest and visit with one another, and some regret to leave the jail."

The mayor said that frequently he has violators who need medical treatment. "If they were sent to a workhouse they would be given the care they need," he said, "and many would be cured before being released."

The city has had no workhouse connection since last January when the commissioners cancelled contracts with Columbus and Cincinnati institutions. Members of the county board contended too many persons were being sent to the workhouses and the expense involved was too high.

New Strife Threatens Auto City

Martin May Order General Strike if Policemen Continue Raids

DETROIT, March 22.—(UP)—Detroit police resumed their raids on sit-down strikers in closed small plants and factories today as the threat of a general automobile strike hung over the city.

They moved in on the Thomas P. Henry company's printing plant where 26 sit-down strikers have been in possession since March 12. The employees surrendered as soon as police knocked on the door.

DETROIT, March 22.—(UP)—The threat of a general strike in Detroit's automotive plants hung today over a city already harassed by labor trouble in 30 industries.

Raids by police and sheriff's deputies against sit-down strikers in plants not connected with the automotive industry aroused the United Automobile workers, who believed local law enforcement officials were laying groundwork for a move against 6,000 employees holding nine Chrysler plants in defiance of a court order for their eviction.

Ordered to Prepare
Homer Martin U. W. A. president, issued an order to 29 local automobile unions to prepare for a general strike call if city and county authorities continued their evictions.

Asked whether he would call the strike regardless of whether the raids continued, Martin said:

"It might be a good idea to call one anyway."

The union exempted only two concerns from its threat—General Motors corporation because it has signed a contract with the U. A. W. and the Ford Motor company because it is outside the city limits of Detroit.

A general strike, however, would shut down the automobile industry here because Ford and General Motors probably would be unable to obtain materials from "feeder" plants in which walkouts would be called.

STATE TO START DRIVE AGAINST TAX CHISELERS

COLUMBUS, March 22.—(UP)—A drive against sales tax chiselers will be started by the state as soon as vendors have filed returns with the tax commission for the first quarter of the year, it was learned today.

Nearly 150 auditors and examiners will be ordered to start checking up on all business enterprises in an effort to obtain thousands of dollars in delinquent sales tax returns, James Dunn, Jr., member of the tax commission, said today.

Deadline for filing of vendors' returns for the first three months of the year is April 15, after which the band of auditors will start checking returns of individual businesses with actual sales records.

"We intend to start with large companies and work down to the smaller concerns," Dunn said. The commission's auditors, armed with returns made by companies, will check the returns with sales records and make assessments.

WHEELER READS HUGHES' LETTER AGAINST ACTION

Efficiency of Tribunal May Be "Impaired" Judge Declares

SOLONS RESUME HEARINGS

Montana Opponent First to Attack F.D.R.'s Move

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(UP)—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes in a statement commended in full by Justices William Van Devanter and Louis D. Brandeis today characterized President Roosevelt's judiciary program as likely to "impair" the efficiency of the supreme court. It was the first formal comment from the court on the president's widely disputed court enlargement plan.

Hughes employed the word "impair" to describe the suggestion of proponents of Mr. Roosevelt's plan that the enlarged court sit in division and expressed direct doubt of the constitutionality of this suggestion.

Presented by Wheeler
The chief justice's views which he declared were fully concurred in by Van Devanter and Brandeis, and so far as he was able to ascertain, by the remainder of the court were presented in a letter written to Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont.

The letter was read to the senate judiciary committee by Wheeler, first witness opposing the presidential program to testify before the committee.

Wheeler was the first witness opposing the president's plan to appear before the senate group.

Hughes' letter expressed confidence that his views on the court plan were in agreement with those of the other members of the supreme bench.

"An increase in the number of justices of the supreme court, apart from any question of policy, which I do not discuss, would promote the efficiency of the court," Hughes' letter said.

"It is believed that it would impair that efficiency so long as the court acts as a unit," Hughes said.

Hughes added that "it is believed" a suggested plan for dividing the court up into groups to speed its work would be "impracticable" because "a large proportion" of the cases we hear are important and a decision by a part of the court would be unsatisfactory.

"One" Supreme Court
He called attention to the constitutional provision that the judicial power shall be vested in "one" supreme court.

Hughes said he had not been able to determine positively that his letter represented the views of all members of the high tribunal but he named specifically Associate Justices Van Devanter and Brandeis as approving his statement of the court's position.

Associate Justice James C. McReynolds, in an informal delivery before a college fraternity last week, made indirect reference to the president's proposal and indicated his lack of sympathy for the program.

For the most part, Hughes' letter was an explanation of the court's work, its docket and its routine—a statement conflicting squarely (Continued on Page Eight.)

CHICAGO WHEAT PRICES HIGHER AFTER RUMORS

CHICAGO, March 22.—(UP)—World wheat prices skyrocketed today on a report to brokers that the Argentine government may ban wheat exports May 1. Chicago prices shot up two to three cents a bushel.

At the start May wheat was quoted at $1.41 1/4 a bushel, up 2 1/2 cents; July wheat was $1.28, up 5 1/2 cents and September was $1.12, up 1 1/2 cents.

The South American reports said further that a board has been appointed to keep a sharp check on exports, the check to be used in making a decision as to when the export ban will be applied.

AMELIA, ON WAY HOME, PLANNING TO BREAK MARK

Airplane, Wrecked Saturday, to be Re-built for Try at Post's Record

ARMY INQUIRY STARTS

Witnesses Questioned About 'Laboratory' Accident

HONOLULU, T. H., March 22—(UP)—An army board of inquiry today investigated Amelia Earhart Putnam's crash at Luke Field Saturday while mechanics dismantled her $90,000 "flying laboratory" and she sailed for home in California with her crew on a sturdy steamship.

The pioneering flight around the world of the greatest woman flier was delayed probably four months by the accident, but she planned to have the plane rebuilt and try again, the next time for a speed record.

Inspectors at Luke Field took photographs of the wreckage of Miss Earhart's silver Lockheed plane, inspected it thoroughly and questioned witnesses to the crash in search of evidence for the formal inquiry. They noted that tracks made by the right tire were wider at the point where the plane went into its disastrous skid on taking off. This, they said, indicated that the tire was getting softer or that it was forced to bear increased weight caused by a tilting to the right. A defect in the landing gear may have caused the wreck, they said.

Shipped Back Home

The right tire burst as the 9-ton plane rolled 60 miles an hour down the concrete runway. The plane skidded, smashed down the undercarriage and came to rest flat on its wing. The damage was extensive and the plane will have to be shipped back to California for rebuilding.

Neither Miss Earhart nor her navigators, Capt. Harry Manning and Fred Noonan, were injured. They were taking off for Howland island, second goal on a flight around the world, after flying from Oakland, Calif., to Honolulu in less than 16 hours.

They sailed for home the same day on the S. S. Malolo, along with Paul Mantz, Miss Earhart's technical adviser, who made the flight here from Oakland but was remaining here to take a steamer back.

To Seek Post's Mark

Before sailing, Miss Earhart told her husband, George Palmer Putnam, in a telephone conversation to Oakland, that she would attempt the world flight again in about four months and hoped to beat the record set by Wiley Post and his "Winnie Mae," who circled earth in seven days, 18 hours, 42 minutes. Post took the short air north route. Miss Earhart's interrupted flight was to have followed the equator.

F.D.R. TO VISIT PHILIPPINES ON GOODWILL TOUR

10,000 Mile Tour Expected to be Started in Spring of Next Year

PURPOSE THREE - FOLD

Trip by Boat to be Delayed Until Congress Goes Home

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 22—(UP)—President Roosevelt has tentative plans to travel 10,000 miles toward the far east in the fall of 1937 or summer of 1938 to pay an American "goodwill call" on the Philippine islands commonwealth, it was reliably reported today.

Date of the journey—3,000 miles across the United States by train and 7,000 miles to Manila via Hawaii by boat was said to depend on when the present session of congress finishes its business.

The federal judiciary program, the executive government re-organization plan and other controversial issues before the national legislature made it certain, however, that the president cannot leave Washington this year for such an extended trip. Congress is expected to run well into the fall.

Mr. Roosevelt's visit to the Philippines would have a triple purpose: It would cement United States-Philippine friendship at a time when the common wealth is looking forward to its independence; the president could repay the current trip to this country by President Manuel Quezon; and it would provide Roosevelt with another sea trip which he enjoys.

The president's tentative plans for the Philippine trip were revealed as the department of state in Washington studied personnel of a joint American-Philippine committee to study the economic advisability of granting the islands their complete freedom from the U. S. in 1938 or 1939 instead of July 4, 1946, as now provided by congress.

Mrs. Oscar Jones

OFFICIALS at Longview, Tex., redoubled their efforts to apprehend the slayer of Alex Brown, county sheriff, following the receipt of threatening notes to the wives of district attorneys who are investigating the slaying and pushing the search for the killer. One of the women threatened, attractive Mrs. Jones, wife of District Attorney Oscar Jones of Gregg county, is shown above reading the crumpled note which warned her to "Keep Mr. Jones off a certain case or look out for you and maybe, him, too." Sheriff Brown was shot in the back in his jail living quarters.

BASE OF REBEL FORCE ATTACKED AFTER ILLNESS BY GEN. MIAJA OF FOUR YEARS

WITH LOYALIST ARMY, Madrid Front, March 22 — (UP) — Gen. Jose Miaja, defender of Madrid, began an attack today on Sigüenza, nationalist base of operations 72 miles northeast of the capital, army dispatches said.

A loyalist air fleet, winging ahead of the rapidly advancing government forces, bombed the Sigüenza railway station, destroying several army trains on which munitions and men were being concentrated, government headquarters reported.

Another bombing squadron "caught" a nationalist supply train of 1,000 trucks on the Aragon highway as it retreated toward Sigüenza with munitions and arms salvaged from the Guadalajara defeat.

Army reports said the loyalist air force dropped 650 heavy bombs on the convoy, destroying most of the trucks and causing many casualties. Thousands of rounds of machine gun bullets were fired at close range into the ranks of accompanying insurgent troops, reports said.

Meanwhile the government's international brigades, led by the crack Garibaldi battalion of anti-Fascist Italian volunteers, drove like a three-pronged pitchfork into the outer defenses of Sigüenza.

MUSKRAT 'RUNS' IN MAIN STREET; HUNT IS PLANNED

It has been many years since muskrats were trapped in Circleville, but expedition may be sent out to find one of the river inhabitants in W. Main street.

As big as you please, a muskrat trotted, or waddled, or whatever they do, up the middle of Main street during Saturday afternoon's rush hour. It disappeared behind a building. Some of the street's business men are planning to call on Conservation Officer Clarence Francis to seek his aid in hunting the animal.

SURVEY SHOWS DETAILS ABOUT NEW OHIO ROAD

Ashville Hears Highway to Run From Lancaster to London Through County

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

A survey just completed, "log," the engineers call it, shows most everything there is to be known about a highway. The one referred to is the new state road to be constructed from Five Points to the Pickaway-Fairfield line at what is known here as the "Henry Kiger Corner." And from this Kiger Corner on to the Circleville-Lancaster highway, a distance of about fifty miles in all.

So Ashville will be quite near a through state highway — London to Lancaster.

To Return North
Mesdames Alsbaugh, Hall and Salladay are starting north in a few days. They have spent the winter at Cocoon Grove, Florida.

Many More by Cars
Without a dissenting vote at "headquarters" the other day, the gas explosion in Texas which killed some 500 children and teachers, was voted a "terrible thing" which it was. But in this U.S.A. thirty-six thousand more than the 500 are slain by automobiles each year and this is considered sort of a necessity.

Special Services
Beginning with Monday, there will be preaching services by the pastor, Rev. Walter Peters, at the Methodist church each week day evening, ending Friday evening with communion service.

Bowers Speaks
Prof. Harold Bowers, Ashville, of the state department of education, made a talk Saturday before the county teacher body at the Pickaway township school building. In his work at the state department he has to do with the issuing of teachers' certificates for the entire state. According to his statement there are forty-two thousand teachers in Ohio and there are issued from his department an average of ten thousand certificates each year.

Trip South Ended
Mr. and Mrs. John Sark, Mrs. Frank Baum and Miss Anna Hay have returned home from the south. They were away twenty-seven days and much enjoyed every minute of the time. While there, most of the time was spent in southern Texas. Mrs. Baum and Miss Hay made most of their visit at the home of her son Clarence and his family at Corpus Christi, on the Gulf.

This town is literally alive with oil wells and this means work for all and enormous profits to the oil well owners and operators. Mr. Baum, above mentioned, is employed in a lumber and cement supply yard which operates twenty-four hours a day. Supply deliveries are made to "coming in or shot wells" at any hour of the twenty-four. This same Mr. Baum concluded he needed a new house so in 17 days he had a brand new one, six rooms complete, ready to move into. "That's the way they do things down there," Mr. Sark said. And continuing he said he and Mrs. Sark spent much of their time at San Marcos where they had been on other trips and were acquainted with a number of people. They visited, too, at Westaco where the late Jonathan Sark spent several winters and where the Hays own a 20-acre tract. Here are grapefruit and orange orchards with a number of fruit packing houses, all busy packing and loading cars for shipment. On the Hay tract, corn was a foot high. Our trip was a splendid one of about 3,400 miles. Fine people, good roads and swell climate and we are already thinking about the trip we expect to make again next winter. No, we didn't talk politics, because we wanted to come home with a whole head. Republicans have wisely learned to "close up" when they get into the Southland and I'll not tell you any more this time, he finished.

She's Nearly 100 and Blind But She Never Drops a Stitch

That's Aunt Martha of Amazing Speed,
for You!

LOWELL, Mass., March 22 — Early implanted habits of industry thrive among New Englanders — even when they approach the century mark and are blind.

Take, if you will, the case of Miss Martha F. Hills of this typical New England industrial city. Miss Hills will be 100 years old April 24. She has been totally blind for at least 10 years. Yet she knits incessantly and with all the speed and accuracy of one much younger and in full possession of her faculties.

A reporter, visiting an exhibition at the Lowell Workshop for the Blind, stumbled across Miss Hills' remarkable story. Noting a particularly attractive display of knitted face cloths, he asked the director who made them.

Her Fingers Fly

Then it was disclosed that Miss Hills, who lives with a niece, Miss Loueva Balchard, has been turning out knitted goods in almost wholesale quantities for years despite the fact that she must depend wholly upon her sense of touch and the accomplished skill which she acquired before blindness came. It would seem that her fingers had labored so industriously for so many years that today they need no prompting from her eyes.

Miss Hills was born in the neighboring state of New Hampshire in a town called Windham on April 24, 1837. She taught school in Hollis and Windham and in 1888 came to Lowell.

Always industrious, even as a child, "Aunt Martha," as the neighbors affectionately call her, could not bear to be idle even when infirmity and blindness took their toll. So today she sits comfortably in her wheel chair and her knitting needles fly with the speed of wind and the flash of lightning. The only aid she requires is that someone place the proper yarns into her hands. The remainder she does herself—a valiant pilgrim in a land of perpetual darkness.

Two years ago Miss Hills knit 170 face cloths. Last year the number dwindled slightly but she is still going strong. Most of the cloths she gives away to friends; a few she sells at Christmas time. She can knit sweaters with almost equal facility and experts who have examined her products have pronounced them flawless. Even in her blindness she takes New England pride in her craftsmanship.

"Aunt Martha" plans to pass her centennial anniversary knitting. Nothing gives her greater pleasure, but she will probably take time out to listen to messages of congratulation from friends and neighbors. She is in excellent physical condition for one of her age.

SECOND WIFE'S CHARGES LODGE GEORGE IN JAIL

CHILLICOTHE, March 22 — Married in Circleville 10 years ago and father of three children who still reside in Chillicothe with their mother, Paul George, formerly of East Water street, is being held in Chicago on charges of bigamy and non-support following his alleged marriage there last December to another woman.

According to Police Chief Ben W. Rout, George left here about a year ago and the chief has been holding a warrant for some nine months, charging non-support of the three minor children still living here with their mother, Mrs. Rose George. The children are Norma Louise, 7; Barbara Ann, 4; and Jeanette Rose, 3.

About a week ago, Chief Rout received a long distance telephone message from a Chicago woman who said she had found a lover in George's pocket indicating that he had a family here. She said she was married to George last December, not knowing he was still married here. Up to the time of this call, Chief Rout was unaware of George's whereabouts.

No Divorce Action

An investigation was begun and it was indicated that the local Mrs. George had never applied for a divorce nor secured one; neither had she ever been notified of a divorce having been applied for by George. In the meantime, the non-support warrant was forwarded to Chicago where George was placed under arrest.

In a telegram received by Chief Ben Rout Saturday from Walter Storms, acting chief of detectives at Chicago, it was stated that George was willing to waive extradition, but that charges of bigamy and non-support would be placed against him there if Mrs. George had never secured a divorce here.

By a queer twist, the International Typewriter Exchange of Chicago has also been seeking George whom it claims purchased a typewriter on the installment plan and then sold it before payments had been completed. Chief Rout Saturday informed the Exchange that it could have a representative talk personally to George in a Chicago jail.

OAKLEY TURNER HAS LEAD ROLE IN MAY 15 PLAY

COLUMBUS, March 22 — Oakley Turner, of Atlanta, Pickaway county, has been chosen for the leading role in the Masquers production of "Death Takes a Holiday" which will be presented May 15, on the Capital University campus where Turner is enrolled as a junior.

The play which was written by Alberto Casella, and translated by Walter Ferris, has established itself as a striking drama and as one of the most important and unusual plays of our time. It is a drama which arouses thought, stimulates discussion and optimistic philosophy on the problems of love and death.

Turner, who is the son of C. O. Turner, Atlanta, has played the leading role in last year's May Day production and in the fall presentation of "Journey's End." The president of the junior class, Turner is also an officer of Masquers, Campus Council and Varsity "C."

ANOTHER FACES HEARING AFTER MARION'S ACTION

Charles Seymour, city will be given a hearing at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in police court on a charge of failure to send two children to school.

The charge was filed by George C. Marion, attendance officer. He charges Seymour failed to send Helen, 13, and Rosa Lee Seymour, 12, to school on March 18.

The case is the second of its kind in police court in the last few days.

POSSES GIVE UP IN SEARCH FOR SUICIDE'S BODY

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., March 22 — (UP) — The body of the first man to commit suicide by leaping from an American commercial airplane was lost today in the rugged California hills.

He was Anatol Maren, 30, a WPA official from San Francisco, bound for Los Angeles on a vacation.

The United Airlines plane was at 11,000 foot altitude Saturday night when he slipped from his seat, smashed the glass seal on an emergency door, opened it and stepped off, plunging to death in the darkness. He may have fallen for more than a minute, depending on the height above sea level of the spot where he smashed against the ground.

All day Sunday his body was sought by land and air. An airplane followed the course of the San Francisco-Los Angeles radio beam, retracing the route several times to guide the crew of ground searchers on its way. The posse bent through heavy brush for miles and last night the search was ended. Undersheriff Ray Pyle of Kern county said the body may never be found.

The plane was near Blackwell Corners, 64 miles northwest of Bakersfield when Maren disappeared. None saw him jump. He left the door open and his overcoat lying across his seat as evidence of his departure.

Maren's relatives in San Francisco could ascribe no reason to his act.

The case recalled that of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, the Belgian financier, who leaped from an airplane over the English channel in 1928. Fishermen found his body 10 days later.

RAIL RECOVERY

THE extent to which prosperity is returning to the railroads is indicated by figures just released by the Association of American Railroads, showing that on March 1 Class 1 railroads had 42,212 new freight cars on order.

This was the greatest number on order on any corresponding date since 1926 when there were 50,947. On March 1, last year, the railroads had 12,679 cars on order and on the same day two years ago, there were 514.

Class 1 railroads had 375 new steam locomotives on order on March 1, this year, a larger number than on any corresponding date since 1930 when there were 450.
New electric and Diesel locomotives on order on March 1, 1937, totaled ten.

New freight cars placed in service in the first two months this year numbered 6,135, the greatest number installed in any corresponding period since 1930. In the first two months last year, 1,925 were put in service, while two years ago there were only 428.

Wiseacres who predicted several years ago that the day of the railroads was over are now maligning themselves because they didn't buy railroad stocks.

SHOCKING TRAGEDY

IN the worst tragedy in the history of the United States, in which Nature was not responsible, about 500 school children and teachers gave up their lives when the school at New London, Texas, exploded.
Why conditions were permitted to exist that made the explosion possible will probably never be known.

Extinction of the lives of these 500 children should call attention of the nation to conditions in schools throughout the country. It is unfortunately true that most schools are the responsibility of petty politicians whose fitness for even a remote connection with education often consists of the ability to write their names.

Five hundred children are dead because of negligence. If there had been no negligence, the possibility of such an explosion would have been eradicated.

But as long as people vote for school and other officials whose chief qualifications are the ability to shake hands and membership in the right lodge and church, thousands of schools will continue to be run in the same manner as the school at New London, Texas.

French scientist thinks people soon will live to be 200 years of age. But it's likely that the first century will continue to be the hardest.

It seems to be a rule. The less a magazine article says, the more exciting the pictures are.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

The supreme court fight will not be settled until June or thereabouts at the earliest.

It may not be settled then, but perhaps it will be.

If it is, it will be settled more or less in President Roosevelt's favor. The settlement may look somewhat like a compromise, but it will be a settlement of a nature reasonably satisfactory to the White House.

Otherwise it will not be a final settlement.

In the event that the administration plan is voted down by congress, the administrationists simply will try again.

In the rather likelier event that a decisive vote is stalled off until its supporters are worn out for the season, the same old contest will be resumed next winter.

NO NEW LAWS

But assume that the president wins what he is willing to accept as a victory.

Even so, congress will adjourn, right afterward, until January, 1938.

It will not proceed, without any further delay, to enact the new economic laws which the executive mansion is asking for. All that will hang over until the next session.

This will make 1938 an unprecedentedly hectic year on Capitol Hill.

THEY, A VIOLENT SESSION

The beauty of it is that the 1938 session will be right on the eve of another election—that year's congressional election.

Granting:

1. That the supreme court fight still is hanging fire, or

2. That the administration has won as to the supreme court, but still is being fought relative to its program of reform legislation, or

3. That the administration has been beaten as to the supreme court, but is campaigning for a majority in the succeeding congress—

The session of 1938 is certain to be a violent one anyway.

A FIGHT EITHER WAY

If No. 1 is the case the administrationists and the anti-"packers" of the supreme court personnel will scratch at one another like wildcats.

If No. 2 is the case the beaten administrationists naturally will have to fight for their lives to prove that they were right regardless of the administrationists' victory.

If No. 3 is the case the administrationists will have to fight for their lives to vindicate their position at the November congressional election.

1938 THE OBJECTIVE

No matter how the issue is regarded, the present conflict is preliminary.

One side or the other may gain an advantage meantime. That's what both sides are maneuvering for.

However, the result in 1938 is the objective from both standpoints.

A PROLONGED FIGHT?

For that matter, 1938 may not be decisive, either.

The thing suggests a possible tie now.

Who knows but that there will be a prolonged tie at 1938's congressional election?

That will stop the dispute over into 1940 -- a presidential year.

Two uncertain elections!

ALL UNCERTAIN

Anyhow, let no one gamble on the outcome of the supreme court contest from present indications.

At present? They are 50-50.

Next year's election? Still more uncertain.

Nineteen forty? Still more indefinite—merging off into infinity.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

ROPER MAY FACE OUSTER ATTEMPT

WASHINGTON—Secretary Dan Roper's numerous critics on Capitol Hill are beginning to gang up on him. Certain of them have seriously discussed a proposed resolution calling on the President to dismiss him from the Cabinet.

The last time such extraordinary action was taken was during the Coolidge regime, when Senate liberals moved to oust Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. The resolution was squelched, but shortly thereafter Coolidge replaced Daugherty with Harlan F. Stone. He in turn was "kicked upstairs" to the Supreme Court when he threatened to prosecute Andrew Mellon's Aluminum Company for alleged anti-trust law violations.

Anger and disgust at Roper's bumbling administration of the Commerce Department has been growing in Congress for a long time. No department has had so many changes in executive personnel. And none has been subjected to such harsh and frequent condemnation.

The Bureaus of Marine Inspection, Foreign and Domestic Commerce and Air Commerce have been under fire almost continuously since Roper took command of them. The Air Commerce Bureau underwent another reshuffling only a few weeks ago.

The idea of making a public demand for Roper's removal was prompted by his secret disbanding of the National Committee on Safety at Sea. His congressional foes consider this latest Roper operation another example of his partiality toward shipping interests, and they are up in arms over it.

At least one meeting has been held at which the ouster-resolution was discussed.
Whether anything will actually come of it remains to be seen. But it is certain that "Uncle Dan" is very much in bad on Capitol Hill.

LIBERTY OR DEATH

Scene in a widely-known Washington restaurant:

The walls are covered with autographed photographs of statesmen, past and present. In a conspicuous spot hangs a picture of the nine Supreme Court justices in their official robes. Directly beside the picture is a neat plaque inscribed with Patrick Henry's famed declaration:

"Give me liberty or give me death!"

NOT E. F. HUTTON

On February 25 The Washington Merry-Go-Round, in reporting the testimony of Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, before the Securities and Exchange Commission, referred to the SEC's "investigation of E. F. Hutton's alleged manipulation of Atlas Tack." This was in error.

Mr. E. F. Hutton at no time was investigated by the SEC, and held no shares of Atlas Tack. SEC's Atlas Tack investigation involved Mr. W. E. Hutton 2nd.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round is glad to print this correction and apologize to Mr. E. F. Hutton.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating.
And this is also true of the political ism.

The battle of the century is now being arranged. Joe Louis has signed to fight the champion of the world, whose identity escapes us at the moment.

Cod Liver Oil Still Good as Top-Notch Tonic

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
SINCE SPRING is traditionally the time for poets to quote a medical spring poem which I find in Leslie J. Harris' "Vitamins in Theory and Practice", ascribed to C. H. A.:

"Oh, fine and fat was Ralph the rat.
And his eye was a clear cold gray.
How mournful that he ate less fat
As day succeeded day.

Till he found each cornea daily horrier.

Lacking its Vitamin A,
I missed my Vitamin A, my dears.

That rat was heard to say,
'And you'll find your eyes will ke-rantinize.

If you miss your Vitamin A.'

"The epiphyses of Jennima's knees
Were a truly appalling sight;
For the rickets strikes whom it jolly well likes.

If the Vitamin D's not right, Though its plots we foil with our cod liver oil.

Or our ultra-violet light.
So swallow your cod liver oil, my dears.

And bonny big babes you'll be.
Though it makes you sick it's a cure for the rickets.

And teeming with Vitamin D."

The vitamins have gone through a long period of probation and seem to be now definitely established as having an important physiologic role in the body.

Used in Past Ages

As long ago as 1766 cod liver oil was used in the Manchester, England, Infirmary for Chronic Rheumatism. And just the other day I saw as a brand new discovery, the results of the use of Vitamin A in chronic arthritis.

Soon after the epoch-making work of Voit and Pettekofer on the role of the different foodstuffs in nutrition (the date was about 1880), physiologists began to work with the idea of making a concentrated diet. This would furnish the food elements in pure chemical form, with the result that a person could carry his full day's rations around in a small bottle; take one capsule for breakfast, two for lunch and three for dinner. Why they thought this was a desirable state of affairs to achieve, I am sure I don't know. But it is with happiness that I am able to report that in 1888 Lunin, at Basle, Switzerland, published the report of a failure. Mice could not live on a synthetic diet with purified fat, protein, carbohydrate, salts and water. The addition of 2 c. c. of milk daily saved their lives.

The substances in fresh food were called vitamins. Vitamin A, which is growth-promoting and protection against infection, is found in fat foods and cod liver oil. As early as 1858 "A Treatise on Cod Liver Oil" published in Edinburgh, described how a peculiar type of inflammation and infection of the eyes could be cured with cod liver oil.

READ THIS FIRST:
A cable from America carries the interest of the stenographer in the dingy law office of Stuckey & Stuckey, London. Upon his arrival Charles Stuckey learns that Miss Jacqueline Smith, daughter of one of his few respectable clients, now on the continent with her mother, has inherited $1,500,000 from an American uncle. Colonel Alec Judd Stuckey, calls and reads the cablegram about the inheritance when Charles leaves the office for a few moments.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4
THE SOLICITOR, returning to his office, glanced at the cablegram in the Colonel's hand and frowned.

"Look here, Lutman," he began irritably, "what the devil..." The other stopped him with a gesture.

"I've got it!" he exclaimed ex-ultantly.

"Well, put it back; it's not addressed to you. What do you mean..."

"Stuckey's face grew sullen. He knew how true were the words, and knew also, to his bitterness, the significance of the caller's last remark.

"Look here," continued Lutman,
"who are these Smith people?"

"Mrs. Smith," said Charles, "is one of my oldest and most valued clients."

Lutman grinned.
"And I suppose Miss Smith is the other? Well, never mind that now. Where do they live? Have they had this news yet?"

"Mind your own darn business," began Charles, and Lutman grinned again.

"And whose business is this if it isn't mine?" he asked calmly. "I gather that word of this windfall has not yet gone to your old and valued clients? Well, it need not."

The solicitor stared at him.

"What on earth are you getting at, Lutman?"

"Money," said the other laconically. "The only thing I want to get at. Money for you and for Jimmy—and for me, of course."

"Of course," Charles smiled sardonically. "But you can't pinch a legacy!"

An expression of pained fastidiousness crossed the Colonel's face.

"Really, Charles," he expostulated, "I think that for the future you would do well to leave personal contact with your—er—clients to the excellent Mr. Bells, and thus preserve, perhaps, at least some of the usages of polite language. Now listen—his tone changed and he became serious—"I am not proposing that I should—er—pinch the legacy. What sort of a girl is Miss Jacqueline—was it?"

"Just what do you mean?"

"I mean," explained the visitor,
"has she any attractions, other, of course"—tapping the cablegram—"than the all-important one conferred by this news?"

Charles shrugged his shoulders.
"I've never seen her or her mother," he admitted.

"Where does she live?"
"Ever since five years now, she and her daughter have been—er—moving around the continent. But listen, Lutman, what's on your mind? I'll have no funny business..."

"Please, Charles! You jar me.
I am proposing nothing that is not strictly honest and straightforward. We've got to make some money somehow; moreover, we must placate friend Jimmy, who will be here—glancing at his

SEVERAL ANGLES PENDING

Garden Ready to Stop Bout
Booked in Chicago

NEW YORK, March 22 — (UP) — Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock was ready today to ditch his scheduled title defense against Joe Louis and take the next boat to Germany to fight Max Schmeling — if — Berlin promoters will kick the ante $500,000 and agree to several minor concessions.

That was the answer of Braddock's manager, Joe Gould, to the latest offer of $350,000 tax free made the champion by Deutschlandhalle to fight Maxie in Berlin late in June or early in July. This offer, an increase of $100,000 over the first, is open until tomorrow at noon, after which Schmeling intends to demand fulfillment of his contract with Madison Square Garden for a title fight against Braddock in Long Island beach, June 3.

Many Stipulations
"We want $400,000 deposited in a New York bank, an American referee and one English judge, and we don't intend to give up the Louis fight until we get it," Gould said. "Also they've got to agree to make it okay with the Garden and Mike Jacobs."

Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs claims the Deutschlandhalle's offer amounts to $400,000 since they have agreed to guarantee American promoters $50,000 for their share of the fight. Jacobs said the increased guarantee was offered Braddock eight days ago secretly.

"Gould's offer to accept $500,000 more than we will offer means just one thing to me," Jacobs confided. "And that is the highly publicized Chicago guarantee of a half-million is a lot of guff. Also, why does he want us to take care of Madison Square Garden's contract if he figures he can sidestep so easily just by going out to Chicago and fight?"

"If Braddock does not take up this offer by tomorrow noon, he's going to wind up right behind the eight ball because Garden attorneys have assured us they can secure a federal injunction restraining Braddock from fighting Louis if he fails to keep his June 3 contract with Max."

"OLD MAN" OF MAJORS
STILL GOING STRONG

Jesse Haines, Cards'
Hurler, in 44th
Year

By WALTER JOHNS
Central Press Sports Writer

If you, dear fan, are wearing of reading about the brilliant deeds and bright future of such baseball youngsters as Pitcher Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, kindly turn your gaze to this corner of the bull pen.

You will now see a sight for sore eyes. The exhibit is Jesse Joseph Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals. And that arm that Old Jess is snapping across his chest as he lets his fast one go is 43 years old!

Figure it out yourself—Jesse was born in Clayton, O., July 22, 1893. And we wouldn't believe it ourselves until we saw it in the record books—Haines was pitching big league baseball before Bob Feller was born!

Haines' stamina is amazing. In one game for the Cincinnati Reds in the season of 1918. The following November Feller was born. So, that's that.

Jesse Can Take It
Haines' stamina is amazing. After 23 years of steady elbowing in leagues, both big and little (the last 18 with the Cards) Jesse Joseph still has enough stuff to be looked to by Manager Frankie Frisch for some victories during the impending season—and the Cardinals have pennant hopes, don't forget that.

Jesse was never the greatest hurler in baseball during those long years, but he has outlasted the brilliant stars of his time, including his mighty contemporaries—Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Haines broke into baseball with Dayton, O., of the old Central league. During the next five years he pitched for Saginaw, Mich.; Detroit; Springfield, O.; Denver, Colo.; Topeka and Hutchinson, Kas.; Cincinnati; Tulsa, Okla., and Kansas City, Mo.

Kansas City was the last view of the tall timber for Jesse Joseph.

Redlegs Too Rough On Bases, Grimes Protests

TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—(UP)—Cookie Lavagetto was on the Brooklyn sidelines today as the Dodgers invaded Tampa for a return match against the Cincinnati Reds.

Lavagetto was suffering a badly sprained right ankle sustained during the Reds 7 to 3 triumph over the Dodgers yesterday.

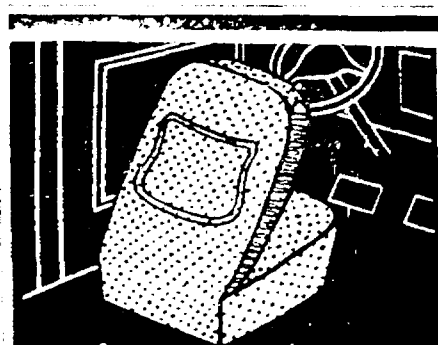

The hard base running of the Reds caused Dodger Manager Grimes to protest to Chuck Dressen. Cookie was tumbled as Scarsella slid into second. Tony Malnosky, Brooklyn shortstop, suffered bruised right knee ligaments when Kampouris collided with him.

Both players probably will be out for about 10 days. Grimes criticized Dressen for "encouraging rough tactics" on the basepaths.

The Buckeye coaches agreed on 10 officials who will work throughout the season in pairs and will be rotated in a manner similar to that employed in organized baseball.

If the plan, agreed upon at a meeting here yesterday, is successful an effort will be made to expand it in the 1938-39 season to include all contests in which a Buckeye team is involved.

The officials chosen and the tentative pairings were: Dan Tehan and Winton Moeller, Cincinnati; Dick Gray, Cincinnati; and Harold Wise, Columbus; Dr. David Reese and Mack Hummon, Dayton; Charles R. Harrington, Cincinnati; and Irving Carlisle, Delaware; and "Dink" Westfall, Charleston, W. Va. and John Halliday, Gallipolis. Harry Schwab, Dayton, was named as an alternate.

Jesse Haines

He was transferred to St. Louis in a player agreement late in 1919. From that day Jess has been a Cardinal and one of their most dependable pitchers.

For a lifetime average, Jesse has smoked the ball across the plate for 207 wins and 155 losses for a grand average of .572. He has pitched in more than 3,000 innings and struck out nearly 1,000 batters while walking somewhat less than 900.

Best Year in '27
Jesse has been in five world series, although in one, the 1931 event, he did not participate because of a shoulder injury.

Best years for Jesse were in 1923, when he won 20 games and lost 13; in 1927 when he captured 24 while losing 10, and in 1928, when he tagged 20 and lost eight.

Only last year, at the "life begins past 40 age", old Jess came through with seven victories and five losses in 25 games.

In 1924, Jess pitched the only major league no-hit, no-run game when he shut out the Boston team. It was the first time since 1876 that a St. Louis pitcher achieved that feat.

OLSEN DECLARES
HAMILTON TEAM
ONE OF FINEST

COLUMBUS, March 22.—(UP)

A mythical parade of winners of the annual state scholastic basketball tournament since the Ohio High School Athletic Association took control of the event, passed before the eyes of Coach Harold G. Olsen of Ohio State today.

Annually since the tournament was moved from Delaware to Columbus 15 years ago, Olsen has watched the competitors with a critical eye and he would be willing to pit Hamilton, winner of the Class "A" title here Saturday, against any team which ever took the laurels.

In the mind of Olsen and other veteran tournament observers, the outstanding combines to take a state title prior to this season were the Springfield team of 1925, the Zanesville quintet of 1926 and the Dayton Stivers five of 1929.

Olsen is of the belief Hamilton belongs beside that trio on the top rung.

"Making a comparison of a team now with one that played eight or ten years ago is a difficult thing," Olsen said, "but I believe for all-around strength Hamilton is as fine a team as ever won the state championship."

Olsen's praise wasn't alone for Hamilton. He was of the opinion the entire tournament field was superior to any in tournament history.

The proteges of Coach Lou Hirt were all excellent shots and adept ball handlers.

They employed a complicated double pivot as their chief offensive weapon and worked it to perfection.

The greatest attributes of the team however, probably were its ability to size up situations and its coolness under pressure.

Opposing coaches, notably Herman (Bup) Rearick of Dover whose team fell before Hamilton in the semi-finals, marveled at the manner in which the boys from southwestern Ohio instantly switched their offensive and defensive tactics to fit the conditions they faced.

STATE'S P. G. A.
TOURNEY IS SET FOR LATE APRIL

CLEVELAND, March 22.—(UP)

One of the earliest major golf tests in Ohio history was scheduled today when George Alves, president of the Ohio Professional Golfers' Association, announced the state's seven entries in the National P. G. A. would be determined in a tournament to be held April 26 at the Springfield Country club.

The seven low scorers over a 36 hole medal route will gain places in the national classic which will be played May 24-30 at Pittsburgh.

Alves said the Springfield club was selected because of its central location and in a belief the tournament would attract a larger field there.

The last major tournament to be played at the Springfield club was the state amateur in 1933 when Bobby Servis of Dayton took the title.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22.—(UP)—The Boston Bees, who have lost five of their six starts this year to the Yankees, entertain another American league opponent today in the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers turned in their second straight win of the year, 5 to 2, over the Boston Red Sox yesterday. Rookie Chester Wilburn's two bagger with the bases loaded in the sixth sent Detroit's winning three run margin home.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22.—(UP)—The Washington Senators meet their first American league opponents of the year today when the Boston Red Sox come to Orlando. Staging a nine run uprising in the sixth inning featured by Pitcher Jack Salveson's homer with the bases loaded, the Senators yesterday overwhelmed the Philadelphia Phillies, 15 to 7.

New State Titlists

New cage champions were crowned Saturday night in the fairgrounds coliseum after a great state tournament. — Hamilton, boasting a fast-breaking offense, a smart defensive team, and a clean record, won the class A title by defeating Massillon's highly-touted crew in the finals. — The Hamilton outfit is the first from that city to win the gonfalon. — It was picked by few persons to go through the tourney despite its unblemished season's play. — Watching the quintet in action against Perrysburg, many of the so-called experts changed their minds. — The champions had a tough row to hoe, too, turning back Perrysburg, then Bridgeport, Dover and Massillon. * * *

Arlington on Top

Upper Arlington, which team joined the Central Buckeye league, Saturday, to make the going no easier in the loop from which Circleville just withdrew, knocked off the 'B' crown by winning handily from Lockland. — The Arlington team was tall, fast and of class 'A' caliber. * * *

One School Needed

The Central Buckeye still needs another school to fill its lineup of six. — Included now are Arlington, Grandview, Bexley, Delaware, and Westerville. — Marysville's withdrawal became effective at the same time as Circleville's. — A bid was made to London, but it was rejected. — What other team may be sought is not known. * * *

Grid Drills Resume

Spring football practice was to be resumed at the high school this afternoon with all who seek places on next fall's team expected to report. — Drills were conducted for two days three weeks ago, but bad weather interfered and the practices were put off. — Coach Jack Landrum has a nice-sized squad to work with, and hopes are high for next fall's edition, providing a couple of underclassmen can come through as outstanding backfield men. — The line at least at this time looks good. * * *

MEL CARPENTER
TAKES HROBON'S
PLACE AS PRO

Emil Hrobon, professional at the Pickaway Country club two years ago, has resigned as the professional at Indian Springs club, Columbus, to enter the business world.

Hrobon's place will be taken by Melvin Carpenter, popular young Columbus golfer. Carpenter has a splendid record in competitive golf. In 1930 he won the Ohio high school title, in 1932 he tied with Jules Blanton, Marietta, for the district honor, and in 1933 he won the state public links tourney and the Scioto Valley championship. He repeated his public links high places in other outstanding tournaments in the same year.

Carpenter is co-holder with Barney Hunt and Joe Rooney of the Indian Springs course record with a 66. He has scored 67 at Arlington, 67 at Dublin road, and 68 at Wyandot.

NEW COURT SYSTEM TRIED
MILWAUKEE (UP)—The conciliation branch of the Milwaukee County circuit court cleared nearly 1,000 cases from a congested docket in a year as litigants chose to arbitrate their differences before Judge Daniel W. Sullivan. Attorneys found the conciliation branch so useful that some of them are presenting their cases there before filing action.

Smithsonian Gets Elephant
ROCHESTER, Ind. (UP)—African elephants, larger than the Indian variety, are so rare in the United States that Jumbo II, who died at Cole Brothers-Clyde Beaty winter circus quarters after swallowing a broken pop bottle, is being mounted for exhibition in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

Bidding went: North, 1-Heart, third hand; South, 3-Hearts, believing that there should be game, perhaps a slam; West, 4-Clubs; North, 4-Hearts, which he probably would not have ventured had not partner jumped the assist. That ended bidding.

The opening lead was the 6 of clubs, and dummy was in with its lone Ace. Hoping for an even break of opposing trumps, the Q of hearts, followed by the 3 of hearts, were played. Declarer's K won the last trick, dropping all opposing trumps.

The 10 of spades was led. Declarer hoped to lose only one trick in the suit. Perhaps he might establish a pair of good spades in dummy, upon one of which a diamond might be discarded. To his annoyance the Q covered and the K lost to the Ace.

Somehow North did not think a club would be led for dummy to ruff. He expected a diamond would be led, but dummy had to ruff the K of clubs, leaving the lead where he did not want it to be. To North's disgust he had to lead a diamond from dummy. The K was played, hoping to win the trick and lead a spade, but East won with the Ace. Back came a club, which dummy had to win with its last trump.

Or course declarer could not fail to fulfill his contract, but he was one of the players who takes pride in making every possible trick and he had hoped to make one over-trick. Stranded in dummy there was nothing left for him to do but take dummy's Q of diamonds, then give defenders their third trick by leading a losing diamond.

VETERANS SEEK APPOINTMENT OF SECRETARY FOR RELIEF COMMISSION

BETTER SERVICE IS SOUGHT FOR ALL DEPENDENTS

Resolution Drafted After Meeting to Discuss Regulations

IRWIN SERVING NOW

Action Expected at Next Board Conference

Resolutions urging appointment of a secretary to the Soldiers' Relief Commission will be considered by all veterans' organizations at meetings in the near future.

The resolutions, sent to the organizations Monday, were prepared following a meeting of representatives of the various veteran groups last Friday night in Memorial Hall.

If the resolutions are approved by the groups they will be submitted to the Soldiers' Relief Commission at the next regular meeting, April 1. Howard Irwin, a member of the commission, has been serving as secretary. Veterans believe the appointment of a secretary, other than a member of the board, would permit expansion of the work of the commission.

Resolution Quoted

The resolution as sent to all organizations follows: "Whereas, the laws of the state of Ohio, governing veteran relief, make due provision for the relief of indigent veterans and their dependents and for the administration of said laws, and whereas, there are approximately 100 indigent veterans and the dependents of such in Pickaway county, Ohio; therefore:

"Be it resolved that to provide for the application of said laws to said indigent veterans and dependents of Pickaway county, Ohio, there shall be appointed by the Pickaway County Soldiers' Relief Commission, a secretary, whose duties and compensation shall be designated by the said Soldiers' Relief Commission.

"And be it further resolved that the service rendered and the compensation received by the said secretary shall be equal to the service rendered and compensation received by appointees of other counties in the state of Ohio having a comparable numerical veteran population to the numerical veteran population of Pickaway county, Ohio.

"And be it further resolved that the Pickaway County Soldiers' Relief Commission shall provide the necessary office space and supplies to permit the secretary to perform his duties efficiently."

Members of the commission in addition to Mr. Irwin are Mrs. Joseph Rooney and A. J. Lyle.

Copies of the resolution were sent to the following: Howard Hall post, American Legion, and the auxiliary; Henry Page Folsom post, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the auxiliary; Spanish American War Veterans, and Catherine Wolfley Hedges Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans.

PENNIES PAY $25 FINE

LONDON (UP)—A canvas bag containing 1,919 copper coins was handed to the clerk of Southend Police Court the other day by George Smith in payment of a $25 speeding fine. Two policemen counted the coins—960 pennies, and 959 farthings—and found the amount to be one farthing, or half a cent short, of $25.

WPA ACTIVE IN HAWAII

HONOLULU (UP)—WPA projects totaling 107 are under way in Hawaii, according to Frank H. Loey, territorial director. They range from bookbinding of government records to large construction jobs. Slightly fewer workers are on the WPA rolls in the territory than in previous years.

FISH-GAZING MAY BE CURE

LONDON (UP)—Doctors at the Paddington Green Children's Hospital are conducting an experiment to see if fish-gazing has a beneficial effect on ill children. Fish-gazing, it is said, is soothing to the nerves. Doctors have placed a large tank of trout in the convalescent ward.

SHAW IS CALLED TO TELL INQUIRY BOARD OF FACTS

Oil Field Foreman Says Fuel Line Tapped For Building's Use

wobbled and his hands trembled violently. There were scars on his face marking wounds he suffered from flying glass in the explosion. He was in the schoolyard at the time.

Synthesizing the testimony of a hundred witnesses in two days, the board of inquiry learned that a gas pocket had formed, probably in the basement, to make the school a gigantic bomb where a thousand children sat in training for their future lives, so many of which were doomed to early end. About 800, in the fifth to eleventh grades, were in the building at the time. Earlier grades had been dismissed.

Origin of the spark that touched off the blast was still a mystery. A few of the witnesses, those who saw the explosion or arrived to help with the first rescue work, believed the gas accumulated in the walls. But the preponderance of testimony indicated that the explosion came from below the ground floor to send its force up through the roof, blasting the children from their desks and burying them in torn and screaming heaps under great masses of steel, wood and mortar; merciful enough to kill most of them outright.

Second Funeral Held

Last of the 426 dead were identified today in the red clay of the countryside after two days of almost continuous, individual services that required the help of 60 East Texas ministers. One couple, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. York, attended a second funeral today for their daughter Dale. They buried a mangled little body Saturday, thinking it was theirs. It was a mistake. The parents of Sue Emberling, one of the missing, recalled that Sue attended a girls' slumber party Wednesday night and the girls had painted their toe nails red as a prank. The Emberlings conferred with the Yorks. It was agreed to disinter the body that the Yorks had buried. When the toe nails showed red, the Emberlings claimed the body and the Yorks returned to the morgue to search again.

They found one body left unclaimed, that of a fair-haired girl of about 12, Dale's age, and were able to identify it. Today they gave Dale another funeral.

There were 49 seriously injured in the hospitals today and about 15 children were reported missing, possibly blown to pieces. Foreman Clark, who provided the clue to the source of the school's gas supply, is a burly, precise spoken Texan. He sat hunched forward in the witness chair relating that he had no knowledge that Parade Company gas was run to the school until a messenger from Shaw came to him the night of the explosion.

Not Selling Gas

"Had I discovered this school connection previously, I would have severed it," he said. "I was not selling gas to anyone. We have never sold a cubic foot of gas."

State Senator Joe Hill, civilian member of the board of inquiry, pointed a pencil at Clark and asked:

"You don't want to leave the impression that this work was done without authorization?"

The foreman said possibly some Parade Company official had given permission to tap the gas line.

Floyd Hunt, one of the janitors at the school, testified that four or five janitors had made the connection to the gas line. He thought Shaw gave the order for the work but he was not certain of it. The work was done "in open daylight," he said.

Shaw, interviewed at his home, would only say that "a Parade company official can tell all about the pipeline."

The idea that leaking gas might have accumulated in the basement for several days seemed disproved by the testimony of two janitors,

Turned on Gas Jets

CONFESSING, according to police, that he slugged his girl, Lillian Roberts, 27, tied her to a chair and turned on the gas jets, 18-year-old George Underwood, Louisville, Ky., theater usher, shown as he was questioned concerning the murder, assertedly declared, "I would do it again." The youth asphyxiated the girl because "she nagged me," police said he told them.

WHEELER READS HUGHES' LETTER AGAINST ACTION

Efficiency of Tribunal May Be "Impaired" Judge Declares

with the argument of some administration leaders that the court is unable to keep up with its work.

Knows Its Work

"The supreme court is fully abreast of its work," the chief justice wrote to Wheeler. "This gratifying condition has obtained for several years. We have been able for several terms to adjourn after disposing of all cases which are ready to be heard."

Hughes' letter pointed out that the supreme court docket is classified as original and appellate.

"Our original jurisdiction," he said, "is defined by the Constitution and embraces cases to which states are parties. There are not many of these. At the present time they number thirteen and are in various stages of progress to submission for determination."

"Our appellate jurisdiction covers those cases in which appeal is allowed by statute as a matter of right and cases which come up to us on writs of certiorari."

He presented a comparative statement of the cases on the dockets for the six terms preceding the current term.

666 Cases Decided

"During the present term we have thus far disposed of 666 cases which include petitions for certiorari and cases which have been argued on the merits and already decided."

In regard to the general idea of enlargement of the supreme court or its division into several panels, Hughes' letter said:

"It is believed that it would impair that efficiency (of the court) so long as the court acts as a unit. There would be more judges to hear, more judges to confer, more judges to discuss, more judges to be convinced and to decide. The present number of justices is thought to be large enough so far as the prompt, adequate and efficient conduct of the work of the court is concerned. As I have said, I do not speak of any other considerations in view of the appropriate attitude of the court in relation to questions of policy."

TWO CARS DAMAGED

Hobart Amann, city, reported to police his car was damaged Saturday night while parked in front of the Weaver wholesale house, N. Court street. He does not know the driver of the car that struck his auto. Orville Barnhart, Walnut street, said his car was slightly damaged when sideswiped by the auto that struck several parked cars on N. Court street. He said the car in the accident failed to stop.

Danger of Gas Explosion in Local Schools Scouted

Pickaway county parents who have read accounts of the school disaster in New London, Texas, need have no fears about the safety of their children so far as gas is concerned.

Superintendent George McDowell said only four county schools have gas connections. They are Jackson, Monroe, Williamsport and Ashville. "All pipes are checked regularly," Mr. McDowell said. "None of the county schools is heated with gas. All are heated by coal."

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, reported gas is not used for heating the buildings. Pipes are checked regularly, however.
